PROFILE

A recent graduate of Dev Academy, Aotearoa, with a strong foundation in full-stack web development. I love the process of problem solving, learning from documentation, engaging in hands-on practice, or gaining insights from senior developers. Every opportunity helps expand my knowledge and refine my skills.

Beyond my professional interests, I have a fervent love for video games, which inspires much of my personal creativity. I enjoy digital art, particularly drawing and sketching, as well as 3D modeling. Picking up new skills and talents is something I find incredibly rewarding, and I often incorporate these hobbies into my daily routine. These creative pursuits fuel my passion for technology and development, helping me to embody a well-rounded individual who thrives on continuous improvement and innovation.
